STILL SEARCHING FOR GOLD.

There seems to be a well defined feeling in certain mining circles of dising in certain mining circles of discouragement over the prospects of ever obtaining sufficient values from the sands of the valley to merit the working of the sand by means of any of the known processes. Still there are some of the locators who persist in searching for properties upon which the sands of the valuey to ment the worsing of the sand by means of any of the of the locators who persist in searching for properties upon which the showing of gold is fair. These latter are of the opinion that they will yet discover a method of treatment for the black sand, which is said to hold the values.

It has been learned that for the past three years an old miner who has his house down near the river in the vicinity of the Church farm has been endeavoring to take gold out of the sands. He is provided with an assay outfit and many appliances for tests and during the time be has been en-gaged upon the work the gentleman has taken out considerable gold by making numberless assays. making numberless assays.
